25 September 1951

Major R. E. Clark
Office of the Air Surgeon
Flying Training Air Force
Waco, Texas

Dear Major Clark:

This letter is written in regard to the AME course at the School of Aviation Medicine which I am tentatively scheduled to take in October.

When we were at the Base Surgeons' conference at Scott Air Force Base last month, I talked to Colonel McIlroy about this and he was the one who convinced me that I should go to the school inasmuch as I was the only Base Surgeon in the Training Command who had not taken this course. I asked him at that time whether or not having taken the course would in any way prejudice any resignation from the Air Force for which I might apply next year, either in April or in July. As you know, I have a fellowship at the Mayo Clinic for either 1 April or 1 July 1952, and there is a possibility that I may apply for a resignation from the Air Force in order to take advantage of this residency as a civilian. Colonel McIlroy stated that AME training should not prejudice such a resignation in the event that I applied for it inasmuch as I had been requested very strongly by him to take this training for the benefit of the Air Force.

I am writing this letter therefore in order to get something down in writing concerning the matter before I take the course, to wit: I have applied for AME training only because I have been requested to do so for the benefit of the Air Force with the specific understanding that I shall not be required to remain in the Service, as a result of this training, beyond the time when I shall be eligible for discharge should I at that time elect to apply for resignation.

Sincerely,

RICHARD R GRAYSON

Mayo Foundation
University of Minnesota Graduate School
Rochester, Minnesota
ATTN: Dr. Victor Johnson, Director

Dear Sir:

It is my understanding that Dr. Richard Roland Grayson is applying for a fellowship in medicine in the Mayo Foundation.

Dr. Grayson has been working in this hospital for the past year in the capacities of Chief of the Out-Patient Service and Chief of the Medical Service. He has discharged these duties in a superior manner and has demonstrated a sound knowledge of internal medicine coupled with good judgment, willingness to work hard, and a good bedside manner.

Dr. Grayson is constantly trying to better himself and spends a great deal of his after-duty time reading and trying to keep up with the current advances in medicine. He is a stable, pleasing, personable individual who takes orders and accepts responsibility readily. He can be relied upon to act in the best interests of the patient and the hospital.

I strongly recommend him for a fellowship in medicine in the Mayo Foundation and know that, if accepted, he will be an asset to that institution.

Yours very truly,

I. LOUIS HOFFMAN
Colonel, USAF (MC)

aforementioned report does not state whether the flight surgeon warned the pilot about the use of this drug while flying. The Surgeon General has previously placed great emphasis on the danger of the indiscriminate use of certain drugs by flying personnel and again admonishes all medical officers, specially flight surgeons, to take the proper steps in regard to flying status when and where it becomes necessary to prescribe drugs which may adversely affect flying. All Air Force medical officers should again refer to the article on page 9 of AFCSG Memorandum No. 39, January 1950. The Inspector General's Office has felt this matter of sufficient importance to devote an entire Rex Riley poster to it. See Volume 5, No. 1, 3 January 1951.

AIRCREW EFFECTIVENESS REGULATION

For the first time in the history of the Air Force, a directive (AFR 160-69) has come out specifically defining many of the duties and activities of the flight surgeon. The new regulation is titled "Aircrew Effectiveness Program," which in turn is defined as "the application of the principles of aviation medicine to problems associated with flight."

The overall task of the flight surgeon is to promote and maintain an optimum degree of flying readiness in all aircrew personnel. For the purposes of this directive, flight surgeons include designated flight surgeons, aviation medical examiners and officers rated medical observers. Regulation holds flight surgeons, at every level of command, individually responsible for organizing and pursuing an energetic aircrew effectiveness program.

There are now approximately 475 practicing flight surgeons on active duty in the Air Force, assigned to operational flying units. Their responsibilities include such programs as physical examinations, physical fitness, mental health, flying safety, personal and protective equipment, medical training, aeromedical indoctrinations, aircrew personnel requirements and flying activities. All flight surgeons are urged to scan closely AFR 160-69, 13 February, and apply its provisions promptly.

The Surgeon General's national consultant in aviation medicine very recently made the statement that, in his opinion, Air Force flight surgeons were not devoting enough time to flying with our aircrews, studying and observing the use of all items of personal protective and survival equipment for the specific purpose of discovering ways and means for improving these items. He feels that we must all spend more effort in improving the effectiveness of airmen.

One of the primary flight surgeon responsibilities is to determine requirements. If a crew member's effectiveness could possibly be enhanced by the development of new item of equipment, the more effective integration of present equipment, or the adoption of a particular operational procedure, flight surgeons should establish individual research projects or make pertinent recommendations to higher headquarters in the accomplishment of this mission.

FLIGHT SURGEONS AND SALESMANSHIP

Are flight surgeons poor salesman? According to an official report recently prepared by a representative of the Aero Medical Laboratory, it would appear that the answer is in the affirmative. The report drawn from a trip to Korea, concerned some current problems of escape and personal equipment presently encountered in the Far East. An extract from the report is quoted as follows:

"Anti-G suits are being worn by some groups on all missions, while others have not even unpacked this equipment. In our fighter-bomber group the use of anti-G equipment is considered mandatory, because they have found that flying while wearing the anti-G suit results in much less fatigue after a day in which several missions are flown. Yet many pilots were encountered who had been in dog-fights with enemy aircraft and had been subjected to anti-G forces, i.e., 6 to 8 Gs, but because only a few seconds were involved did not realize an anti-G suit would have helped them. These fliers were briefed on how the anti-G suit allows a pilot to utilize the acceleration that the plane will withstand without overstressing it. When this knowledge was made known to the fliers, they developed new interest in the item. Many pilots announced their intention to start wearing this equipment when they were apprised of the fact that it would lessen their fatigue. One pilot of an F-84E stated that he had recently encountered two MIG-15s in a dog fight and had evaded them only by turning inside of them. During these maneuvers he blacked out several times. After hearing lished data and of unpublished clinical and experimental data done by or known to members of the Subcommittee. The recommendation for disapproval was accepted by the Committee on Surgery on 22 March and by the Committee on Ophthalmology on 6 April. Decision is approved by USAF Surgeon General.

MEDICAL JOURNAL CONTRIBUTIONS

The May issue of the Armed Forces Medical Journal contains two articles by USAF Medical Service contributors. "Carbon Tetrachloride Nephrosis: Report of a Patient Treated Conservatively" was written by Lt. Col. I. Louis Hoffman, USAF (MC), and Richard R. Grayson, Lt. (jg), USNR. "Mandibular Osteotomy" was contributed by Lt. Col. Richard J. Burch, USAF (DC).

Colonel Hoffman is Surgeon at Reese AF Base while Colonel Burch is chief of the oral surgery department at Chanute AF Base.

FLIGHT SURGEON

FLIGHT SURGEON IN ACTION

(The following material was delivered by Brig. Gen. Edward J. Kendricks, as part of the 1951 Kober Lecture at Georgetown University.)

The flight surgeon as a specialist practices usual unit military medicine encountered with ground troops — care of the sick and wounded, preventive medicine, supervision of food and water, and sanitation. In addition, the flight surgeon must be far closer to the men of his unit than the usual doctor. He lives, eats and flies with these men. He understands and checks their equipment for efficiency, and continually indoctrinates his people in the use of this equipment. He is watchful for signs of stress, fear of flying or other psychological changes as well as physical changes due to stress, emotional strain and combat.

By his knowledge of high altitude physiology, his familiarity with the hazards of high speed flight and the protective equipment incidental to both, he practices still another type of preventive medicine. His choice and use of therapeutic agents must be based upon his knowledge of flying and the hazards related to it. For example, he is fully aware of the limitations imposed by altitude upon such everyday occurrences as the common cold and the anti-histamines of current use.

The flight surgeon as a specialist must first be a physician — a good doctor. He must also be a military doctor, in that he fully appreciates the requirements of military medicine. He must be able to consider medicine as it affects the unit as well as the individual. He must understand the practice and the value of preventive medicine. But the flight surgeon must also know the special problems of airmen.

His is the mission of keeping man in his airplane, keeping man in the air for the time required to accomplish his global mission. The aircrew does the flying, secure in the knowledge that medical attention is prompt, understanding and geared to their special problems; that their health, safety and efficiency are guarded by the unit flight surgeon; that the maintenance of the airman is as prompt, efficient and dependable as the maintenance of his bomber. Therefore, something of the unit flight surgeon goes with every ship over the target.

DEVILS, DRUGS AND DOCTORS

The Surgeon General's Office has received a report from the Inspector General's Office which should be brought to the attention of all flight surgeons. The information was included in a weekly aircraft activity report submitted by a fighter interceptor squadron. It is quoted as follows: "An F-51 pilot went on sick call for a cold. The flight surgeon prescribed some pills and put him on duty in quarters for one day. The next morning, the pilot noticed a slight congestion in his nasal passages and took two more pills, and reported for duty. At lunch he felt fine, and was scheduled to fly. During the flight he noticed slight anoxia at low altitude. Because of difficulty in aligning his fighter with the runway he elected to make a go-around and another approach. The landing was slightly rough. The next day he found he had been prescribed anti-histamine for his cold, and reported that fact to his operations officer. It was felt that coordination with the flight surgeon's office would prevent recurrence of this act."

The Surgeon General desires to reemphasize the importance of controlling indiscriminate use of drugs by airmen. The Capt Grayson.

YOUR FILE REFERENCE:

IN REPLY REFER TO:

Lt. JG, Richard Roland Grayson
Reese Air Force Base
Lubbock, Texas

Dear Sir(s):

Enclosed is VA Form 4-1870, "Certificate of Eligibility," which is issued for the convenience of the veteran in obtaining a loan to be guaranteed or insured under Title III of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, as amended. In further loan negotiations this certificate should be used in lieu of the veteran's original discharge papers.

The amount of entitlement available to the credit of the veteran is endorsed on the reverse side of the certificate and has not been reserved for any specific loan.

The Certificate of Eligibility must be returned to the Veterans Administration at the time a loan report or application is submitted for the guaranty or insurance of a loan.

The enclosed certificate is the property of the veteran and should be retained by him (or returned to him). If no action in connection with a loan is contemplated or if a pending application for a loan is withdrawn, the Certificate of Eligibility should be promptly forwarded to the veteran. The certificate must be returned to the veteran as soon as the loan is closed and the lender has received the evidence of guaranty or insurance.

Very truly yours,

Dear Fellow Veteran:

Welcome to The American Legion. We're glad you responded to our invitation to join.

You are assigned to Headquarters Post 2910 in Bloomington, Illinois. Why Bloomington? Our by-laws prohibit us from placing you in a local post without your permission. So, until you choose one of the following three options, you will remain a member of Post 2910.

You have three options:

- Transfer — We have forwarded your name to posts in your area. You may be asked to transfer to one of these posts, but this is voluntary. It must be mutually agreeable between you and the post. Someone should be in touch with you soon.
- Request a Post — If you are interested in a particular post, just contact our Bloomington office. We will forward your request to the post adjutant.
- Stay in Post 2910 — Some of our members prefer to stay in Post 2910 as "Members-At-Large." You will still enjoy all the benefits of American Legion membership.

You do not need to notify us of your decision, unless you are interested in a particular post.

Please contact our Bloomington office if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Vincent A. Sanzotta
Department Adjutant

P.S. You will receive a membership card from our National Headquarters.
