

TESTIMONIALS FROM THE PRESS.

The Detroit Free Press.

A FAMILY TREE.

Prof. Hambujer, of this city, has just published a volume entitled "The Family Tree" which is intended when properly filled out to show a complete family record exhibiting the relationship between families and tracing the line of descent through the several generations. The plan upon which the pages have been prepared and lettered seems to be an admirable one and well calculated for the purpose to which the book is designed. Testimonials of approval from a number of citizens accompany the work.

Detroit Evening Journal.

Prof. Hambujer has just published a valuable memorandum book, entitled "The Family Tree," a record of ancestors, and showing the relationship between families, names, births, marriages, deaths, occupation, religion, emigration, history of their real estate and property, with record of notes, bonds, wills, and other personal and domestic matters.

The Detroit Tribune.

Prof. E. Hambujer, of Detroit, has invented and published a clever book called "The Family Tree" which will enable purchasers to keep a complete family record of ancestors, showing the relationship existing between families, and tracing the line of descent through the different generations.

Detroit Sunday News.

Prof. E. Hambujer, of Detroit, has prepared and published a book entitled "The Family Tree," to serve as a record of family connections and relationships, with blank spaces for the registering of nearly every fact worth knowing about one's self or his kindred.

Detroit Commercial Advertiser.

A very useful record book has just been published by Prof. E. Hambujer, of this city. It is appropriately named "The Family Tree." In it are pages whereon to record the family pedigree and continue the same indefinitely, besides convenient dates for noting all matters relating to property, wills, etc. In fact, if kept with the care such an important record demands, it will prove not only interesting to the present, but invaluable to future generations. The Professor deserves credit for the skill shown in arranging the record book, which is his own idea and invention.

The Freemason.

PERSONAL. Prof. E. Hambujer has just issued a book entitled "The Family Tree," which is a very useful work and should meet with great favor. It is something that every family should have. It is artistically gotten up and bound in the strongest of binding, and will last through generations.

THE FAMILY TREE.

"The Family Tree," a useful publication for keeping family records, has been issued in Detroit. It is published by Prof. E. Hambujer, who is entitled to credit for completeness with which he has given it. Every family should have one.

The Michigan Farmer.

RECEIVED. We have received a copy of "The Family Tree," a family record of ancestors, prepared and published by Prof. E. Hambujer, of this city, which, as its title indicates, is designed to hold, in convenient form, the whole family relationship and history. It is a good-sized register, conveniently and appropriately arranged for the purpose indicated, substantially bound and of excellent quality of paper, so that it may be easily preserved. It is designed also as a record of the property investments, which are to be entered under appropriate heads. In view of the many instances where persons might have proved their claims to inheritance to great properties had they but possessed proofs of kinship, and because also of the litigation often arising through the loss or wanton destruction of important documents, the value of such a family record is obvious. In these days of pedigrees and herd-books it would seem as if a man ought to realize that it is as important to keep an account of his own family relationship as of the ancestry of his stock.

Wayne County Courier.

Persons who have a veneration for their ancestry, and who wish to keep a clear and complete family record, should possess themselves at once of "The Family Tree," a remarkably complete work of its kind, issued by Prof. Hambujer, of Detroit. It is a very handy book to have in any family and is designed for the benefit of all, as the professor truly says.
