Recognition of Retirement of Richard Roland Grayson, MD.

October 17, 2008 Introduction by Dr. Paul Gekas:

Richard Roland Grayson recently was made an honorary member of the medical staff at Delnor-Community Hospital after forty-five years of service. He joined the medical staffs of Delnor Hospital and Geneva Community Hospital in 1963, when he moved here from Elmhurst, Illinois, where he had been practicing since 1960. He was one of the first physicians in the area to practice the speciality of internal medicine. To that end, he served as the Chairman of the Department of Internal Medicine for three years and also was Committee Chairman of the Bioethics Department from 1990 to 1995. During this time, Dr. Grayson was a senior Federal Aviation Medical Examiner. He served the tri-city area by being Medical Examiner for the Department of Rehabilitation and Disabilities, taught a course on science and religion at Aurora University, was a member of the Saint Charles Board of Health from 1963 to 1990, and was a physician consultant for the Illinois Youth Center for a number of years. He also had a particular interest in the effects of stress on the body, especially its relation to peptic ulcer disease. In that regard, he founded the American Academy of Stress Disorders and served as its national president from 1971 to 1975. Richard Grayson was born in Chicago, Illinois, in 1925. In 1943, at age 17 He attended Wabash College in Crawfordsville, Indiana., he became an apprentice seaman in the U.S. Navy during WW II. He rose to the rank of Lt. j.g. He transferred to the University of Illinois and in a span of 3 1/2 years, obtained both a bachelor of science degree as well as doctor of medicine degree, graduating at age 22. Because there was no formal training in internal medicine at that time, he then spent two years at Cook County Hospital in their rotating internship program. He transferred to the US Air Force after internship at Cook County Hospital with the rank of Captain and took training as an aviation medical examiner.

The next ten years of his life were very prolific. From 1950 to 1952, he served in the U.S. Air Force, rising to the rank of captain. From 1952 to 1957, he was in private practice in Perryville, Missouri. Recognizing in 1958, that he needed more training if he wished to exclusively concentrate on diseases of adults, he took a fellowship in endocrinology and cardiology at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri. Dr. Grayson has published 36 articles in his lifetime, many of which were published between 1952 and 1960. He was the first person to describe diseases of the lung in silo fillers in the farms of Missouri. This article entitled, "Nitrogen Dioxide Pneumonia: A New Disease in Agricultural Workers", was published in the Annals of Internal Medicine. This was a significant landmark article in describing that condition for the first time ever. A few years later, he wrote an equally significant article which was published in the American Journal of Medicine, entitled "Factors Which Influence the Radioactive Iodine Thyroid Uptake Test". This article has been cited numerous times, both in other articles as well as textbooks and journals. Outside of medicine, Dr. Grayson has an FCC advanced amateur radio license and was a member of the Toastmasters, Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis. He is a member not only of the Mayflower Descendants, but also a member of the Society of the War of 1812 and of the Sons of the American Revolution. He is a member of the Sons of the Union Veterans of the Civil War, because his great-grandfather, Andrew Jackson Grayson, fought at the battle of Shiloh, under General Ulysses S. Grant.

Greg Jaxon's Summary

I design software systems architecture for new and existing software products. I enjoy crafting algorithms which involve substantial mathematical reasoning. Have been creating software for 35 years and contributed to about a dozen successfully marketed products and academic publications, mostly related to computer language processing. Have worked for small, start-up, and large corporations, academic employers, and for myself. I like great project ideas that are in trouble and need a miracle. On the next one I think I'll want more of an equity stake...

Greg Jaxon's Specialties:

Formal language development; parallel programming; algorithm and data structure choice; strategic thinking about software product development

Enough reasons have built up to finally result in the launch of my blog. It seems that everybody is asking me to let them know how things go at the competition I'm doing in Israel this October, and I've decided this is the best way. There's so much to tell!
This competition is not just about what happens in October, but everything that goes into preparing it. The reason I chose to entitle this blog "Beyond the Moment" (other than the fact that there's a big title area up there demanding me to enter one) was to emphasize that for every fleeting, seemingly effortless moment of performance, countless hours of all various kinds of preparation have been done to ensure that that moment comes across with just the right effect. This is my story of not just the moment of performance, but the real adventure beyond that moment.

In the interest of starting from the beginning, I'll introduce myself. Hello, I'm Elizabeth. :) I am a harpist – a decision undertaken as I was starting college and realized that I had been irreversibly enchanted by the harp and therefore had no choice but to major in it. According to my mother, my whole musical career began by tying shoes at the age of two, which gave her the idea that my fledgling finger dexterity could be developed to do things even more interesting than tying my shoes. I don't remember this shoe-tying incident, just as I don't remember life without music lessons. I was lucky to have a really supportive family who raised me to appreciate the importance of music, even if they aren't professional musicians themselves. Over 20 years later I now have made it through the rigor of classical concert-artist training and have degrees from the University of Illinois' Music Department and the Ecole Normale de Musique de Paris. I live in Paris, by the way! “Yes, I'm American,” I say to all the French people who can't quite figure out where my accent is from. “Yes, I love living in Paris, and the musical environment here is great,” I say to all the Americans who ask. Really, my enjoyment of Paris depends on my mood. Some days it all just makes me want to scream. Most of the time it's wildly stimulating and exciting.

Having just concluded my formal education, I am now entering the International Harp Competition in Israel, which will take place in October. Learning to be a concert artist is done by facing a series of challenges – class recitals, then recitals of your own, local competitions, then bigger competitions... – each time learning from your experience, and then being capable of more the next time around. The competition in Israel is going to be the last big challenge of this sort that I give myself. I really want to be done with competitions for good after this, so I made sure to choose one that was completely off-the-charts ridiculously hard, just so I would really feel like I'd gone all the way, made the best effort possible, and would be justified in moving on afterward.

By way of introduction, the International Harp Competition in Israel (hereafter abbreviated as just “Israel”) is one of the most prestigious harp competitions in the world. Because it is the oldest of the most prestigious harp competitions, it could be thought of as the most prestigious. This is, however, the last time you'll hear me talk about it like that. I don't like the way that calling Israel prestigious implies that I'm prestigious for doing it. Prestige is absolutely not the reason I chose to enter this competition.

For those who don't know, I'll give a bit of an explanation of how the competition works. On October 6th, about 30 talented, hard-working, and completely insane young harpists from all corners of the world will show up in Tel Aviv. We have known about the required repertoire for the competition and have been working on learning and perfecting those pieces for two years. The pieces range from solo works to small chamber ensemble to full, orchestral concerto, and they are all extremely, technically challenging.

14. Janelle Cecile GRAYSON-REAM<sup>1</sup> (Gertrude June LIND-GRAYSON, Theodore Gustav Immanuel, Claus Gustav) was born on 17 Jan 1963 in Elmhurst, Illinois.

Janelle Ream of Elburn is a woman with a past, and it's not a past she wants to forget.

It's her family's ancestry that captivates Ream. Her lineage traces directly back to the Mayflower. Ream's father, Dr. Richard Grayson, through meticulous research and a lot of old-fashioned legwork, provided the documents to prove the family's history. As a result, all three of Ream's children have certificates that read "Society of Mayflower Descendants in the State of Illinois." But the family's claim to fame didn't end with the Mayflower. Ream also has proof that a family member fought in the American Revolution.

Ream will soon become an official member of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR). Although she has not yet received her certification, Ream has already provided the necessary documentation proving her lineage.

Becoming a member of the DAR takes comprehensive research and must be proved with documents tracing back every generation, including birth and marriage certificates. Growing up, Janelle was a member of the Children of the American Revolution, but she allowed her membership to lapse. A friend sparked her interest in the group once again, so she decided to gather the paperwork and get involved.

But while Ream might enjoy studying her past, she's also a woman with a present and one who wants to create a strong foundation for her children. Ream shares a strong interest in music with her husband and their children.

In fact, she met her husband, Randy, while they both performed with the Fox Valley Concert Band, and they are both still involved in music today. She plays harp professionally and he plays saxophone in a jazz quartet.

Janelle married<sup>1</sup> Randall Dwight REAM<sup>1</sup>, son of Robert REAM and Phyllis REAM, on 6 Apr 1986 in St. Charles, Illinois. Randall was born on 29 Jul 1956 in Sycamore, Illinois.

Elburn Market, Inc. in downtown Elburn, IL, has been a meat market since 1904.

In 1954, selling high quality fresh meat and processing meat for farmers, Robert and Phyllis Ream bought the business and operated the store in rural Kane County. As the area started to change, Ream's Elburn Market has evolved into a specialized meat market with which no other store in the area can compare.

Around 1980, Randy Ream, Robert and Phyllis' son, started to learn the art of smoked meats and sausages. The store has become well known throughout the entire Chicago area for their award-winning sausages and smoked meats.

Randy Ream has won over 200 awards in state and national competitions. Randy has also earned his spot in the Cured Meat Hall of Fame! Ream's Elburn Market is an old-fashioned family owned business that specializes in knowledgeable, friendly service and high quality fresh meat, smoked meats, and other unique food items.

Short summary

When I was twelve years old, I loved animals. I had taken care of mice, hamsters, fish, parakeets, a chinchilla, and once even trained a baby robin to fly. At the same time, I was quite handy with computers, so I decided I would combine the two and become a robot scientist. Later on, I realized that there was another way to combine computation and biology, and I ended up spending five years as a Ph.D. student at Caltech, working on a research project involving viruses in the Rob Phillips Group. Since finishing up at Caltech, I have decided to get back to my robotics obsession by joining Pololu, an educational robotics company.

Other interests include running, hiking, and juggling, baking sourdough bread and brewing wine. I love to travel and attempt to speak Mandarin, German, and Russian when I get a chance. Thanks for stopping by!
